City court has been busy this week, grinding out justice.

Harris Cope, of The Dixie, banned "Fatty's" pictures just as soon as the news came over the wire.

For the many nice things said about The Tribune-News and its editor, recently, we are very, very grateful.

Cotton market in Cartersville is best in this section, this year, say farmers who have tried it all out.

For goodness sake, boost your schools and their teachers. They are doing everything in their power to help your children.

Senator Tom Watson did a good day's work when he prevented the confirmation of Link Johnson to that Washington appointment.

You are living in the best town and county in the state. If you don't believe that, just take a week's visit and prove it yourself.

The banks of Bartow county have weathered the summer, and enter the fall months in unusually strong shape. Read their statements on another page in this issue.

Now's a mighty good time to renew your subscription to The Tribune-News, and to get that neighbor who has been a steady borrower of your paper, to subscribe. One dollar turns the trick, you know.

If you think the city officials have done a jam-up and altogether commendable piece of work in the street improvements, for goodness sake tell them. Don't wait until

THE FAIR'S RIGHT ON US!
 WE MUST PUT IT OVER.

Secretary C. H. Cox is now actively at work, doing everything in his power to make the 1921 Fair season one of the best in the long history of successful fairs in Bartow County.

He is being ably assisted by President Henry Milam, and the Board of Directors, which is composed of the following representative citizens: Paul Gilreath, Robert W. Knight, Horace W. Howard and Earle B. Scheuer, who make up the Board of Directors. Mr. Robert Boyd, as Superintendent, and Mr. Frank Beasley as his assistant, are at work getting up agricultural exhibits. Mr. R. W. Jackson has been made superintendent of the Live Stock Department and Mr. W. C. Walton is his assistant. Mr. A. A. Tritt will assist by Cox in the Live Stock department. Miss Ethel Mosteller will be Superintendent of the Woman's Department, and will name other assistants immediately. Mrs. Mary W. Segers is doing everything in her power to make of the Canning Club division of the fair a great big success. She is also lending a hand in all departments of women's activities throughout the county, including the Poultry Club Department. Mrs. Zim Jackson, as superintendent, will see that the baby show this year is better than any before. All mothers should plan right now to enter their babies who range from six months to five years old. Mr. J. W. Jackson will see that the school exhibits are up to their usual high standard, and already he has received some helpful co-operation from teachers throughout the county.

Full and complete programs will be arranged for each day of the Fair, and definite announcement will be forthcoming within the next few days.

Dr. W. R. Moore is again superintendent of the Negro Department. M. R. Perkins, assisted by Jerry Canty, will be in charge of the Agricultural division; Hattie D. Moore and Laura Scott will be in charge of the colored women's division, while the school work will be under the direction of Annie W. Johnson. Annena Copeland, assisted by Louise Hendricks, will direct the negro baby show. Thursday, October 6th, has been set apart as Negro Day at the Fair, and on this day the negroes will furnish the entertainment, both day and night. A feature of this program will be the singing of one thousand negroes in a great chorus in the evening. Athletic events will be staged in the day time.

The above are only a few high spots in the week's program, which starts on October 4th, just three weeks from next Tuesday. Time is growing short!

Supt. Evans Sets Forth Many and Various Ways For Young Folks Continuing Their Studies Beyond Grammar Grades.

Along about this time of the year, parents as well as boys and girls just ready to enter high school, begin debating the all-important question of whether or not to continue beyond the grammar grades.

As is well known, the curriculum of the Cartersville high school has been increased greatly during the past few years, especially since Superintendent L. C. Evans began his duties as head of the local system. The recent decision by the Board of Education which admits pupils without paying fees as in the past, from the county school districts to the Cartersville high school, makes any suggestion on a high school education more than usually appropriate at this time.

Superintendent Evans has furnished The Tribune-News with a copy of the following essay, which asks the question, "A High School Education—Does It Pay?"

"We shall not attempt to tell you the meaning of a high school education, or to describe a high school course, for I take it that most of you know what they are. There are, however, some people who think the high school a useless institution, this is because of ignorance. There are still others who think Latin and Mathematics, Science and Agriculture are things that one need know little about in order to succeed in life. They think one is well prepared for life's work when he has finished the fifth, sixth, or seventh grade of grammar school.

"They are not familiar with great advantages offered by a high school. Take those who live about you, how many are high school graduates? How many are college or university graduates? Now count those who have never gone to or finished high school. See which class has prospered? Which is in majority? Now to which class will you belong in the years to come? Remember, my dear young friends, that now is your only chance to get a high school education. If you do not go to high school now, there is not one chance in a hundred that you will ever go.

"There is hardly an excuse for any red-blooded American boy or girl not having a high school education today. And listen, boys, girls, you cannot afford to listen to those who have never had the advantages of a high school education, when they say, 'I ain't got no high school education, yet I have made money and have a home with money in the bank.' Such may be true, but what could he have been had he gone to high school? Look at the boys

Colored Pupils Register Friday And Saturday

Supt. L. C. Evans announced Thursday that arrangements had been perfected for registering all colored pupils who expect to enter the public schools on Friday and Saturday of this week, at the colored school building, on Sumner's Hill.

The principal of this school will be on hand with sufficient assistants, and parents of colored children are urged to see that they register without fail, either Friday or Saturday, in order that no confusion may result during the assembling of the colored school next Monday morning. These pupils will assemble at 8:30 and suitable opening exercises will be held for them at their school building, Mr. Evans announces.

LINWOOD SHOCKED BY A SAD DEATH

Mrs. G. W. Andrews Passed Away After a Long Illness — Was Buried Thursday.

Linwood and the surrounding country were saddened Wednesday when it was learned that Mrs. G. W. Andrews had passed away early that morning, after a long illness. The funeral took place the following day at Connesena church, Rev. Bond, of Acworth, the pastor, officiating, and was attended by a large concourse of sympathetic friends.

The Andrews family has been sorely afflicted during the past few years, severe illnesses having spread, and several times the death angel appeared and took one of its members; and now this, the most beloved thereof. Mrs. Andrews is survived by her husband and several children. She was a woman of admirable character, a thoughtful mother, helpful church member, and valuable member of the community.

W. P. Whitworth, of Adairsville, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Building Program Carterville, County

Over Two Millions To Be Expended

By M. L. ...

Carterville and Barrow County officials are entering the new year with confidence born out of a track record of public building and improvement projects. They are more equalled in all their long history of achievement. Improvements now a certainty for the community will cost an estimated $2,225,000.

This estimated figure is divided as follows:
 Gas system installations—$1,400,000
 Improvements to the city's water system 550,000
 City's school building program—500,000
 Negro gymnasium structure—75,000
 Total estimated—$2,225,000.

AUDITORIUM IN THE SPRING

By early spring, work is expected to get under way on the erection of the spacious and modernly equipped auditorium at the High School plant on East Church street.

In addition, work will also start and the structure will be completed for affording one of the largest and most modern athletic stadiums in all of northwest Georgia.

Improvements will also be made at the other school plants in the city, under project plans already agreed upon, and with the money from the state actually pledged.

Meanwhile, work is progressing on the erection of the gymnasium building for the colored children, and which will take the place of the old structure burned down last year.

High school building on Hill to take the place of the old structure. The colored children's gymnasium and Barrow county have been improved, and funds for that structure will also be forthcoming from the State of Georgia's school building authorities.

The mains through which will flow the natural gas supply for the people of Carterville are now being laid in various parts of the city, this work having started during the early fall season.

Contractors have assured the city authorities they might count on this work being far enough along to give the people gas service in Carterville by next fall.

What is related in the above paragraphs about Carterville also goes for Alto, Kingston and probably intervening points which have made, or will make, plans to tap natural gas from the main leading from Rome down the highway to include Kingston and Alto.

The contractors are said to have made plans for digging large scale work on the entire interlocking program starting in Rome and leading toward Kingston, Alto and Carterville.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM FOR WATER MAINS

The water main program for the people of Carterville, estimated to cost $550,000, will be completed by the end of the year.

 Total estimated cost...
 When the above program has been completed, the city will have a modern water supply system which will be greatly improved and the existing districts will be able to secure an ample supply of water at all seasons of the year.

The city water supply will be improved by the installation of a new pump house and the replacement of the old pump house which is almost obsolete.

James M. Field Laid To Rest At Oak Hill Wednesday

Death Came Monday Afternoon Late for One of Cartersville's Best Known Gentlemen—Had Lingered Long

After a lingering illness, which kept him confined to his home for several months, Mr. James M. Field, seventy-two years old, died at his home on West Avenue last Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty at the home, being conducted by Rev. Walter S. Robison, pastor of the Sam Jones Memorial Methodist church, of which the deceased was a life-long member. Mrs. A. B. Cunyus, by special request, sang. Arrangements were in charge of Johnson Funeral Directors. The interment followed at Oak Hill cemetery, and the pallbearers were Messrs Miles Dobbins, Tom Simpson, George Cobb, Will Young, Will Peebles and Will Weinman.

Mr. Field is survived by his widow, who, before their marriage was Miss Lula Shepherd; three daughters, Mrs. J. B. White, of Atlanta; Mrs. Herbert Crane and Miss Alice Field of Cartersville; one son, Mr. J. M. Field, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla.; two grandchildren, J. B. White, Jr., and Jerry White, and two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Camp, of Hattiesburg, Miss., and Mrs. L. F. Tumlin, of Cartersville. His son, who had been at his father's bedside for some time, was called to New York, and was en route home when news reached him of Mr. Field's death. Mrs. Camp also came for the funeral.

Postal receipts at the Cartersville post office were more than a thousand dollars greater for the month of July, just passed, as compared with the same month last year, according to a statement given The Tribune-News Wednesday by Postmaster Harry P. Womelsdorf.

The records at the local office show a steady and consistent gain with a consequent increase in business. Yet, the efficient corps of clerks are keeping right up with business, and some more records are being made as a result of the promptness with which outgoing and incoming mails are handled.

Boys And Girls Ready For Term, Begin Wednesday

Full Corps of Teachers On Hand, and Start Was Auspicious In Every Particular, Supt. Robertson Announces

Vacation for Cartersville young people came to an end Wednesday morning when the boys and girls of the town had to hurry off to school, to avoid being tardy. No doubt the end of the vacation was welcomed by the greater number of the students, who are happy to again be in the classroom.

The enrollment for the first day was Douglas Street Grammar School 352, Market Street Grammar 251, Market Street High School 276, Summer Hill School 271, a total of 1,150 enrolled in the City School system.

With the exception of four changes in the faculty in the High School and one in the Grammar School the faculty will be the same as that last year. The changes are as follows:

Prof. J. B. Maddox was named as successor to Prof. Charles Rogers, who resigned. He is a native of Conyers, a graduate of the University of Georgia, and has been a member of the faculty of the American High School for two years past. He is the instructor of mathematics and physics.

Miss Evelyn Gibson, who succeeds Miss Best as teacher of English and History, is a native of Thompson, Ga. She is an honor graduate of Wesleyan College, at Macon, and for the past three years has been on the faculty of the Sparta High School.

Professor Cox, who will study law at Emory University, is succeeded by Miss Lucile Smith, teacher of Science. She is a native of Griffin, graduated at Wesleyan, and has been a teacher in the Roberts school for the past three years.

Miss Minna Cunningham has charge of the Spanish classes in the high school during the ensuing term. She takes the place made vacant by Miss Akin, who resigned to continue her

CARTERSVILLE SCHOOLS

Cartersville can boast of one of the finest public school systems of any city in the south. The system has been a success from its inception and today is the pride of every citizen.

The system was established in 1890 and the act of the legislature creating the same provided for a city school board consisting of sixteen members and the board was to be self perpetuating. On the original board were such well known prominent citizens as Maj. Charles H. Smith, Judge L. W. Milner, Judge John W. Akin, Maj. A. M. Foute and others.

Prof. L. B. Robeson was the first superintendent and after him came Prof. Daves, then Prof. Hughes of Virginia, and then the present incumbent, Prof. H. L. Sewell.

At the institution of the schools the building erected as the Sam Jones Female College was secured by the city largely through donations of stock by those owning it and was used for the West side and the High School, the schools being divided, one being established on the east side and one on the west side. The city already owned its school structure on the east side.

School attendance is generally considered a barometer to indicate the growth of a city, but conditions must be considered as a force in the upbuilding of a school, as will an increased population for the city. The regime of Prof. Sewell has been a conspicuously progressive one and the high notch to which the attendance has reached surely attests the best and most popular methods. In recent years the curriculum of the school has been raised and it is now a duly credited school, equaling in its high line of instruction the Boys' High School of Atlanta and other like institutions. Pupils graduating from the public schools of Cartersville can enter without re-examination the colleges of the land.

The present city school board numbers eight members. These are chosen by the city council, and not all, but a certain number have their terms expire at the same time.

There are ten grades in the system and four grades in the high school. The departments and grades are as follows:

Primary department—first and second grades.

Intermediate department—third and fourth grades.

Grammar department—fifth and sixth grades.

High School department—first, second, third and fourth grades.

In the east school four grades only are taught.

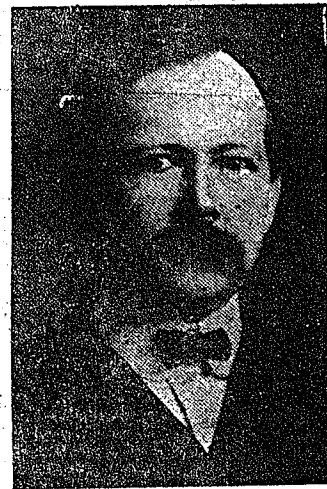

The faculty of the white schools is as follows:

East School.

Miss Pearl Goodwin—Principal and teacher of first grade and section A of second grade.

Miss Sara Rogan—Teacher of section B of second grade and section A of third grade.

Miss Leila Gilbert—Teacher of section B of third grade and of fourth grade.

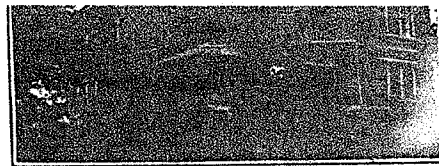

H. L. Sewell, Supt.

West School.

Miss Eva Huppoldt—Teacher of first grade and section A of second grade.

Mrs. J. C. Miam—Teacher of section B of second grade and section A of third grade.

Mrs. Ida Osment—Teacher of section B of third grade and of the fourth grade.

West School Building.

Miss Julia Foute—Teacher of section A of fifth grade.

Miss Lydia Jackson—Teacher of section B of fifth grade and section A of sixth grade.

Miss Sara Heyward—Teacher of section B of sixth grade.

High School.

Miss Bell Bayless—Teacher of first grade.

Miss Viola Stanford—Assistant principal and teacher of English and Latin.

J. F. Lambert—Principal of High School and teacher of history and science.

H. L. Sewell—Superintendent and teacher of Latin and Mathematics.

The following figures speak for themselves; and show the increase of attendance in four years:

Number of white pupils in school September, 1909—575; Number of colored pupils September, 1909—239; total 814 pupils.

Number of white pupils in May, 1905—337; number of colored pupils in May, 1905—187; total, 524 pupils.

LEE'S JOHN HENRY?

Robert Boyd May Posses Very Valuable Picture South's Hero

An investigation made during recent weeks by Mr. Robert Boyd, has led him to believe that he is in possession of an autographed photo of General Robert E. Lee.

The photo, a Currier & Ives print, of ancient vintage, bears across the bottom section an autograph, which experts have declared appears to be genuine. Here is a photo of that signature:

Mr. Boyd came into possession of the extra good likeness of General Lee, through mutual friends some time ago. After he had dusted it off, and secured a new frame for it, he was struck by the autograph signature of General

Lee. Making an investigation, which carried a photo of the autograph to Mr. J. R. Peacock, the well-known historian of Confederate lore, residing at High Point, N. C., Mr. Boyd was informed by Mr. Peacock that the signature appeared to be genuine, and in keeping with an autograph of General Lee which is one of his proudest possessions.

The photo was later sent to Mrs. Mary A. Benjamin, of New York City, and after she had made a careful study, Mrs. Benjamin signature on the Currier & Ives print is definitely genuine."

A note sent to Mr. Boyd by Mrs. Lucy Cunyus Mulcahy, now residing in Atlanta, informed Mr. Boyd that Mr. Wilbur Kurtz, another historian of note, that he is confident there are a number of steel engravings with General Lee's autograph on them.

Mr. Boyd counts himself most fortunate that he does possess such a likeness of General Lee, and that fact that it does bear an autograph, as signed by the General himself, makes it all the more a prized possession.

Bartow County Retail Volume Holds Steady

Bartow County firms recorded a retail business volume of $1,700,590 during the month of July. Business here was "about as usual."

The figures revealed Friday in the Sixth Retail Sales Report, issued by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce.

Statewide retail sales in July held relatively steady as compared with the previous month. A drop of less than one per cent was reflected between the June volume of $275,013,931 and the July total of $274,427,302.

Ample Time To Protect Schools, Arnall Says

In a speech delivered her Friday noon, before the Cartersville Exchange Club, former Gov. Ellis Arnall, of Newnan, pointed out that Georgia would have ample time to protect its school system, if the United States Supreme Court decision proves hurtful to the boys and girls of the state.

Arnall said his study of the situation proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, that no case attacking segregation in Georgia is now before the court, and that he does not believe the nation's Supreme Court will upset any school system which does provide equal facilities for whites and negroes.

Joe C. Nelson, Jr., presided over Friday's meeting, extending a number of special guests present, including several candidates for local offices in Cartersville, as well as Bartow county officers.

J. L. Davis, an Exchangeite, made merry with the visitors, especially the candidates, assessing various fines for various "alleged crimes."

The speaker was introduced by Harold White, whose program it was Friday, and who expressed great pleasure over the privilege accorded him of making the presentation.

Mr. Arnall was given a most cordial welcome and every assurance over the pleasure his presence had given his legion of Cartersville and Bartow county friends. He was accompanied to Cartersville by one of his office staff members, Mr. Thad Buchanan, of Atlanta.

The state constitution, which became a law, while he was Governor, said Mr. Arnall, affirmatively places Georgia in this group of offering equal opportunities for both white and colored students.

He counseled that "we keep our shirts on" and "analyze carefully proposals that have been made to destroy our schools."

A measure passed by the Legislature with the backing of Gov. Herman Talmadge will have the people vote in the next general election on a constitutional amendment to allow the state to support students in private schools instead of sustaining public schools.

Arnall said teachers and school administrators are "quite concerned" that if the "give away" proposal of Georgia's 700 million dollars investment in educational facilities is effectuated, the problems to education will be insurmountable."

 Any how, some years after the war, one of the Federals, who had been a wounded prisoner in the Hunt home, returned to Jones county. Here he was again guest at the Hunt home, but, this time he was treated only as we of the South can treat men. Wined and dined—and Mr. Hascall prepared the barbecue in his honor.

Phone Book Emblem Is Explained

Millions of telephone users are familiar with the "Spirit of Communication" emblem. It has appeared on the front cover of directories of the Southern Bell Telephone Company for the past 6 years.

Actually this illustration on the telephone directory covers is taken from a more vivid work of art—a large bronze statue, known as the Genius of Electricity, which portrays the power of electricity and its speed as a messenger. This statue was placed on top of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's headquarters building at 195 Broadway, New York City, in 1916.

Until 1920, it served only as a landmark on New York's skyline, but then it began to appear on telephone directory covers all over the Bell System. The directory people had given it the nickname, "Spirit of Communication." By the late 1930s, all Bell companies had adopted this emblem as part of the standard directory cover.

The Genius of Electricity, or "Elec" as he is sometimes called by telephone people, figured in the news last March 10, when the sculptor who designed him, Mrs. Nathaniel H. Batchelder, died at her home in Osterville, Mass. As a sculptor, she is best known by her maiden name, Evelyn Beatrice Longman.

What was the story behind the design of this familiar statue?
 About forty years ago, the architect of the A. T. and T. Company building, William Welles Fawcett, and the president of A. T. and T. Company, Theodore N. Vail, had decided upon the statue and had been inviting prominent sculptors to enter a competition for the design.
 The list of contestants was completed on April 1, 1914. They were Miss Longman, Paul Warshaw, F was born Apr. 20, 1866, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ziff Abernathy. Many years ago, she was married to Murdock Martin, who died in 1924. She attended the Baptist church.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, September 26, at the Pipe Grove Baptist church, with the Rev. Mack Howell officiating. Interment was in the Oak Hill cemetery. The Owen Funeral Home, Cartersville, had charge of arrangements.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Lillie Cash, Mrs. Maggie Chestnut and Mrs. Floyd Abernathy, all of Atlanta; three sons, Melvin Martin, of Atlanta, and Allen Martin and George Martin, both of Cartersville; one sister, Mrs. Lillie Jones, of Cartersville; three half-sisters, Mrs. Adeline Stroup, of Atco, Mrs. Claudie Worley, of Chicago, and Mrs. Evie Smith; and one half-brother, Dec Abernathy, of Cartersville.

SH Seniors Present Program

The Senior Class of Summer Hill School presented a welcome program at the assembly session today.

Outstanding features of the program were welcome addresses to the new students and teachers; panel discussion on the Adequate Program of Education in Georgia; music by the high school chorus.

Moderator of the panel discussion was Elvin Canty, presenting the members of the panel, also June Carson who read the resolution which was passed by the GEA Representative Assembly in 1933, requesting that a study be made for the purpose of giving to the children of Georgia the best education possible. The medial phase was discussed by Anna Shaw; moral phase, Katherine Canty; social, Selena Brown; physical, Peggy Johnson; and spiritual education by Floyd Gay.

The first rendition of the year by the high school chorus was Fred Waring's arrangement of No Man Is An Island.

"Presentation of the school colors, Blue and White, the class colors, Blue and Gold, has been a very stirring demonstration here and a challenge of responsibility to self, community, state, and nation," commented Prof. Morgan, in response.

selves from all other duties throughout the ticklish maneuver.

Miss Longman, in the course of her career, modeled the only bust of Thomas A. Edison for which the inventor sat in person as a model. Among her other works were the bronze doors of the chapel of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis; the doors of the library at Wellesley College, the Allison Monument at Des Moines, Iowa, and the colossal "Victory" for the Festival Hall at the St. Louis Exposition.

satin. Her veil of illusion fell from an Elizabethan cap of seed pearls and was worn over the face. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and fleur d'amour centered with two white orchids.

A reception was held in the lower garden which was abloom with rhododendron, azaleas and geraniums. The tiered wedding cake centered the table which was overlaid with a satin damask cloth. At each corner was a nosegay of yellow roses centered with a small wedding bell and showered with ribbon. Silver compotes held yellow and green mints embossed with roses.

Mrs. Red Mullins, of Atlanta, cut the cake and it was served by Miss Ouida Roton, of Acworth, and Miss Mary Dell Weldon, of Atlanta. Mrs. J. C. Osborne, of Marietta, and Miss Elizabeth Weldon, of Cartersville, presided at the punch bowls. Plates with individual cakes embossed with valley lilies and lime punch were passed by Misses Kathryn, Virginia and Jean Hardman, cousins of the bride.

The brides book was kept by Miss Ida Covington, of Ball Ground. Mrs. Carson chose for her daughter's wedding an afternoon frock of rose lace with matching gloves and shoes. Her corsage was an orchid. Mrs. W. P. Yarbrough, sister of the groom wore beige, lace and Orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon left during the early evening for a wedding trip to Miami and Nassau. For traveling the bride wore a dress of pink embroidered linen with duster, to match, navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

Cassville School Children Enjoyed Show At Grand

A total of 169 pupils of the grammar grades of Cassville School, under the chaperonage of their teachers, visited the Grand Theatre Wednesday noon for a special presentation of "The Greatest Show on Earth," the thrilling Cecil B. DeMille story which presents the circus of Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey in all its old-time glory.

The pupils were under the supervision of Mrs. Wilbur J. Ham, Mrs. Keturah Marshall, Mrs. L. C. Crow, Mrs. Frank Lowe, Mrs. David Bishop and Miss Nelle McCormick. Mrs. Dewey Shinall was also present as a chaperon, while Messrs. Buddy Bagley and Jack Manager J. E. Clark welcomed the boys and girls and made them feel at home at the Grand Theatre.

The Smithville School children enjoyed the show on Tuesday, while children from the Summer Hill High School, (colored), attended the Tuesday afternoon show.

Manager Clark said the Martin Theatres everywhere are making welcome the school children, and everywhere "The Greatest Show on Earth" film is presented, special efforts are made to interest the school children, as well as the grown-folks, all of whom are certain to get a big thrill from

Talmadge Honored Again For His Aid To Farmers Of Ga.

ATLANTA.—(GPS) Why would Gov. Herman Talmadge, after holding the highest office in the state government, want to become Georgia's Commissioner of Agriculture?

That question is being kicked around aplenty these days in political circles. If you listen to the Governor's political foes they'll try to convince you he would want it merely for us as a stepping stone to a seat in the U. S. Senate in the distant future. But if you listen to those close to him—the ones who know him best—you get a vastly different and perhaps more accurate answer.

They'll tell you he would take the job only because it would afford him an opportunity to further serve his state in a field he dearly loves—farming. And when you review his record and take note of the many contributions he's made in improving agricultural conditions in Georgia, you can't help but agree that what his friends are saying makes sense. That he's well-qualified for the post there is no doubt.

Latest evidence of the farmer-governor's active interest in affairs of the farm was seen in Athens the other night. Following the 31st annual Little International Livestock Show in which he participated, the Saddle and Sirloin Club, a high ranking organization composed of University of Georgia students majoring in animal husbandry at the College of Agriculture, staged a banquet in Talmadge's honor, unveiled a portrait of him and presented it to the University. Reason: In recognition of his contribution to the livestock industry.

Thus he became the fourth Georgian to be so honored, the three previous ones being Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, director emeritus of the college's department of animal husbandry; W. "Tap" Bennett, agricultural representative of the Central of Georgia Rwy., and E. S. Papy, retired official of the White Provision Co.

Throughout his tenure as governor Talmadge has made many contributions to the industry; the long list of accomplishments embracing virtually every phase of agriculture. For example, he made a special appropriation of $400,000 which made possible the con. tion and full accreditation to take up arms against the government of the United States properly released for publication; and is permitted to his home, not to be by the United States so long as he observes the law and obeys the law where he may reside.

of the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Another special was made by him in the establishment of an Agricultural Diagnostic and Research Station at Tifton, as well as surplus Milk Control for the development of Nutrition Laboratory at the University. These are the many things that have done in the interest of improving the natural conditions in Georgia.

Nor have these gone unnoticed. In recognition given the Saddle and Sirloin Club last year he was the 4-H Club Alumni Award for champion of the 4-H movement award from the Forestry Assn. for his promoting forest
